NY Codes

What did you learn?

I learned that no matter what level you are in you still get stuck. No matter how many people are looking at the same problem it will still take 20 minutes for someone to figure it out. It is okay to not get it!

I also watched how people “play” with the code to make things. It was cool to watch!

Getting frustrated only makes problems worst – just walk away and come back to it. Also re-read your code and check for syntax.

Did you meet anyone new?

I did join another group to keep updated on Java from this group. I was impressed with two people from the group and found one of them on GitHub to follow.
